

International Studies-1

International Studies

Faculty: Potter, Director; Bender, Compte, Fisher, Gross, Hutton, Landreau, Leven, Lowi, Mi, Quinton, Sow, Sullivan, Winston, S. Wright

To meet the increased need for training in global perspectives, the interdisciplinary International Studies major educates students to appreciate the social, cultural, political, and economic characteristics of national, regional, and global communities. It is based on the conviction that historically informed and politically aware students with knowledge of more than one language will be able to think more critically and act more responsibly in a shrinking world. Students who successfully complete this major improve their opportunity for further study in graduate or professional school and careers in government service, private enterprise, international governmental and non-governmental organizations, non-profit education, research and advocacy organizations, and teaching.

Requirements for the Major

International studies majors take 12 courses: an introductory course; two courses each in the following four areas: economics/international business, history, modern languages, and political science; two related electives; and a capstone course. The language courses must be at the 200 level or above and the history and political science courses must be at the 300 level or above. As part of the liberal learning requirements, it is recommended that students take microeconomics and statistics. These requirements differ slightly for the concentration in international economics and trade, which mandates three courses in economics/international business and one related elective.

Each student will select one major concentration from among six. Concentrations are offered in four geographic areas: Europe, Latin America and the Caribbean, the Middle East, and East Asia, and two functional subjects: diplomacy, and international economics and trade. Course requirements differ by concentration; please see the program planner for requirements. The related electives and the study abroad experience should be relevant to the concentration chosen.

Study abroad is an important component of the major. Students are required to demonstrate at least one semester of successful academic achievement in a foreign university, although a year's study is encouraged. Please consult your International Studies advisor and the Office of Global Programs for the most suitable site and program.

Elective courses in the major must have an international focus, complement the student's interest within the major and receive prior approval by an International Studies advisor. Students are also encouraged to pursue an internship with an international focus.

Major Requirements

The requirements for the concentrations are as follows:

Note: Course descriptions appear under respective department headings or below under General Information.

International Studies-2

DIPLOMACY

INT 200/International Studies: Processes, Themes, and Issues 1 course unit

Modern Languages 2 course units at 200 level or above

Political Science 2 course units

POL 330/American Foreign Policy or POL 335/International Organization; and one of the following:

POL 345/INT 300 Human Rights in International Relations

POL 333/Vietnam and America

POL 337/International Law

POL 370/Topics in Political Science (with appropriate topic)

POL 380/International Political Economy

POL 390/Tutorial in Political Science (with appropriate topic)

POL 498/Seminar in Political Science (with appropriate topic)

History 2 course units

HIS 386/United States Diplomacy in the American Century; and one of the following:

HIS 370/United States in World History

HIS 383/United States since 1945

HIS 387/History of the World Economy

HIS 398/20th-Century World History

HIS 455/Readings Seminar in History (with appropriate topic)

HIS 498/Research Seminar in History (with appropriate topic)

Economics/International Business 2 course units

ECO 102/Principles of Macroeconomics; and one of the following:

ECO 335/Economic Development

ECO 340/International Economics

ECO 345/Comparative Economic Systems

INB 260/Multinational Firms

INB 330/Capital Flows and Currency Crises

INB 399/Selected Topics in International Business

MGT 310/Cross-Cultural Management

Elective courses related to concentration and selected by advisement 2 course units

Study abroad experience (includes some courses which will fulfill above requirements)

INT 498/Senior Seminar in International Studies (capstone course) 1 course unit

International Economics and Trade

INT 200/International Studies: Processes, Themes, and Issues 1 course unit

Modern Languages 2 course units at 200 level or above

Political Science 2 course units

POL 380/International Political Economy; and one of the following:

POL 335/International Organization

POL 337/International Law

POL 345/INT 300 Human Rights in International Relations

POL 352/INT 360 Comparative Political Economy of Development

POL 355/INT 355 Political Economy of Natural Resources

POL 370/Topics in Political Science (with appropriate topic)

International Studies-3

- POL 390/Tutorial in Political Science (with appropriate topic)
POL 498/Seminar in Political Science (with appropriate topic)

History

2 course units

Two of the following:

- HIS 387/History of the World Economy
HIS 334/Modern East Asia
HIS 335/Modern Japan
HIS 342/Modern Middle East
HIS 349/The Soviet Union, 1917-1991
HIS 352/Colonial and Modern Africa
HIS 359/Modern Latin America
HIS 387/Topics in World History
HIS 398/20th-Century World History
HIS 455/Readings Seminar in History (with appropriate topic)
HIS 498/Research Seminar in History (with appropriate topic)

Economics/International Business

3 course units

ECO 102/Principles of Macroeconomics; and two of the following:

- ECO 335/Economic Development
ECO 340/International Economics
ECO 345/Comparative Economic Systems
INB 255/Multinational Firms
INB 330/Capital Flows and Currency Crises
INB 399/Selected Topics in International Business
MGT 310/Cross-Cultural Management

Note: For this concentration students must take at least one international business course.

Elective course related to concentration and selected by advisement

1 course unit

Study abroad experience (includes some courses which will fulfill above requirements)

INT 498/Senior Seminar in International Studies (capstone course)

1 course unit

EUROPEAN STUDIES

INT 200/International Studies: Processes, Themes, and Issues

1 course unit

Modern Languages

2 course units at 200 level or above

Political Science

2 course units

POL 350/Politics in Europe; and one of the following:

- POL 335/International Organization
POL 370/Topics in Political Science (with appropriate topic)
POL 345/INT 300/Human Rights in International Relations
POL 380/International Political Economy
POL 390/Tutorial in Political Science: Democracy in France
POL 498/Seminar in Political Science (with appropriate topic)

History

2 course units

Two of the following:

- HIS 316/Topics in Early Modern or Modern European History
HIS 318/Early Modern European Expansion

International Studies-4

- HIS 322/Europe's Imperial Era
- HIS 323/Eastern Europe since 1939
- HIS 324/Women in East Europe 1848-present
- HIS 325/Modern Germany
- HIS 327/WGS 327 European Social History since 1789
- HIS 349/The Soviet Union, 1917–1991
- HIS 455/Readings Seminar in History (with appropriate topic)
- HIS 498/Research Seminar in History (with appropriate topic)

Economics/International Business

2 course units

- ECO 102/Principles of Macroeconomics; and one of the following:
- ECO 335/Economic Development
- ECO 340/International Economics
- ECO 345/Comparative Economic Systems
- INB 260/Multinational Firms
- INB 330/Capital Flows and Currency Crises
- INB 399/Selected Topics in International Business
- MGT 310/Cross-Cultural Management

Electives related to concentration and selected by advisement

2 course units

Study abroad experience (includes some courses which will fulfill above requirements)

INT 498/Senior Seminar in International Studies (capstone course)

1 course unit

LATIN-AMERICAN and CARIBBEAN STUDIES

INT 200/International Studies: Processes, Themes, and Issues

1 course unit

Modern Languages

2 course units at 200 level or above

Political Science

2 course units

- POL 358/Politics in Latin America; and one of the following:
- HON 332/Nations and Cultures in Latin America
- POL 352/INT 360 Comparative Political Economy of Development
- POL 355/INT 355 Political Economy of Natural Resources
- POL 370/Topics in Political Science (with appropriate topic)
- POL 390/Tutorial in Political Science (with appropriate topic)
- POL 498/Seminar in Political Science (with appropriate topic)

History

2 course units

Two of the following:

- HIS 350/Topics in African- or Latin-American History
- HIS 358/Colonial Latin America
- HIS 359/Modern Latin America
- HIS 361/History of Mexico
- HIS 364/INT 352 History of the Caribbean
- HIS 455/Readings Seminar in History (with appropriate topic)
- HIS 498/Research Seminar in History (with appropriate topic)

Economics/International Business

2 course units

- ECO 102/Principles of Macroeconomics; and one of the following:
- ECO 335/Economic Development
- ECO 340/International Economics

International Studies-5

ECO	345/Comparative Economic Systems
INB	260/Multinational Firms
INB	330/Capital Flows and Currency Crises
INB	399/Selected Topics in International Business
MGT	310/Cross-Cultural Management

Electives related to concentration and selected by advisement 2 course units

Study abroad experience (includes some courses which will fulfill above requirements)

INT 498/Senior Seminar in International Studies (capstone course) 1 course unit

MIDDLE EASTERN STUDIES

INT 200/International Studies: Processes, Themes, and Issues 1 course unit

Modern Languages 2 course units at 200 level or above

Political Science 2 course units

POL	357/Middle East Politics; and one of the following:
POL	352/INT 360 Comparative Political Economy of Development
POL	355/INT 355 Political Economy of Natural Resources
POL	370/Topics in Political Science (with appropriate topic)
POL	390/Tutorial in Political Science (with appropriate topic)
POL	498/Seminar in Political Science (with appropriate topic)

History 2 course units

HIS	341/Islamic History from Muhammad to the Ottomans
	or
HIS	342/Modern Middle East; and one of the following:
HIS	330/Topics in Eurasian or Middle Eastern History
HIS	455/Readings Seminar in History (with appropriate topic)
HIS	498/Research Seminar in History (with appropriate topic)

Economics/International Business 2 course units

ECO	102/Principles of Macroeconomics and one of the following:
ECO	335/Economic Development
ECO	340/International Economics
ECO	345/Comparative Economic Systems
INB	260/Multinational Firms
INB	330/Capital Flows and Currency Crises
INB	399/Selected Topics in International Business
MGT	310/Cross-Cultural Management

Options related to concentration and selected by advisement 2 course units

Study abroad experience (includes some courses which will fulfill above requirements)

INT 498/Senior Seminar in International Studies (capstone course) 1 course unit

International Studies-6

EAST ASIAN STUDIES

INT 200/International Studies: Processes, Themes, and Issues 1 course unit

Modern Languages 2 course units at 200 level or above

Political Science 2 course units

- POL 353/Politics in East Asia; and one of the following:
- POL 352/INT 360 Comparative Political Economy of Development
 - POL 355/INT 355 Political Economy of Natural Resources
 - POL 370/Topics in Political Science (with appropriate topic)
 - POL 380/International Political Economy
 - POL 390/Tutorial in Political Science (with appropriate topic)
 - POL 498/Seminar in Political Science (with appropriate topic)

History 2 course units

Two of the following:

- HIS 334/Modern East Asia
- HIS 335/Modern Japan
- HIS 336/Late Imperial China
- HIS 337/20th-Century China
- HIS 330/Topics in Eurasian or Middle Eastern History (with appropriate topic)
- HIS 455/Readings Seminars in History (with appropriate topic)
- HIS 498/Research Seminars in History (with appropriate topic)

Economics/International Business 2 course units

- ECO 102/Macroeconomics; and one of the following:
- ECO 335/Economic Development
 - ECO 340/International Economics
 - ECO 345/Comparative Economic Systems
 - INB 260/Multinational Firms
 - INB 330/Capital Flows and Currency Crises
 - INB 399/Selected Topics in International Business
 - MGT 310/Cross-Cultural Management

Options related to concentration and selected by advisement 2 course units

Study abroad experience (includes some courses which will fulfill above requirements)

INT 498/Senior Seminar in International Studies (capstone course) 1 course unit

Requirements for International Studies Minors

International Studies Minor

Advisor: Potter

Affiliated Faculty: Compte, Gross, Hutton, Landreau, Leven, Lowi, Mi, Potter, Sullivan, Winston, S. Wright

This interdisciplinary minor seeks to introduce students to international studies through course work in four areas: economics/international business, history, political science, and modern languages. It resembles in miniature the international studies major, which is built upon the same four disciplinary pillars.

International Studies-7

Required Courses:

POL 230/International Relations

One of the following:

POL 250/Politics and Society in Developing Countries

POL 330/American Foreign Policy

POL 335/International Organization

POL 380/International Political Economy

One of the following:

ECO 102/Macroeconomics

ECO 335/Economic Development*

ECO 340/International Economics

ECO 345/Comparative Economic Systems

One 300-level history course, by advisement

One 200-level language course in a language other than English or equivalent proficiency (intermediate low as defined in the ACTFL guidelines)

One elective course chosen by the student and approved by the adviser. Elective courses must relate to international studies and may come from any department in the College

*Prerequisite: ECO 101/Principle Microeconomics

Prerequisite: ECO 102/Principles of Macroeconomics

Minor in African Studies

Advisors: Bender, Sow

Affiliated faculty: Gross, Lowi, Potter

This interdisciplinary area studies minor within the international studies program seeks to offer students a broad background in the languages, history, politics, and cultures of Africa. It draws on the existing strengths of a number of departments and faculty members at The College of New Jersey.

Requirements:

HIS 352/AAS 352: Colonial and Modern Africa

One of the following:

HIS 351/ Ancient and Medieval Africa

AAS 201/African and Diaspora Religious Traditions

AAS 365/INT 365/African Cinema: Francophone African Experience Through Film

The minor requires three additional course units such that the total of five courses are drawn from at least three disciplines, chosen by the student from the recommended list or by advisement. Three of five courses must be at the 300 level or above.

Recommended Courses:

AAS 202/ Global Perspectives: African Diaspora Art and Culture

AAS 280/ Africana Women in Historical Perspective

ECO 210/ History of Economic Thought

ECO 335/Economic Development

ECO 340/International Economics

FRE 241/Introduction to Francophone Literature and Culture

HIS 350/Topics in African History

HIS 353/African History in Film, Literature and Music

HIS 354/South African History

HIS 355/East African History

International Studies-8

HIS	356/State and Slavery in West Africa
HIS	357/Religion and Politics in Africa
HIS	455/Reading Seminar (when appropriate)
HIS	455/Reading Seminar on Environment and Society in African History
HIS	455/Reading Seminar on Islamic Mysticism and Shrines
HON	230/Islam in Comparative Perspective
POL	250/Politics and Society in Developing Countries
POL	352/Comparative Political Economy of Development

Minor in Central Eurasian Studies

Advisors: Gross, Hutton

Affiliated Faculty: Kovalev, Liu

This interdisciplinary area studies minor within the international studies program seeks to offer students a broad background in the languages, history, politics, and cultures of Central Eurasia. It draws on the existing strengths of a number of departments and faculty members at The College of New Jersey.

Requirements:

Two of the following course units:

HIS	341/Islamic History from Muhammed to the Ottomans
HIS	344/Commodities, Commerce and Exchange in Medieval Eurasia
HIS	345/Mystics, Merchants and Monarchs in Early Modern Central Eurasia
HIS	346/Modern Central Asia
HIS	349/The Soviet Union

The minor requires three additional course units such that the total of five courses are drawn from at least three disciplines, chosen by the student from the recommended list by advisement. Three of five courses must be at the 300 level or above.

Recommended Courses:

AAH	217/Arts of the Islamic World
AAH	315/Arts and Iran
ECO	345/Comparative Economic Systems
HIS	302/Hellenistic World
HIS	331/Silk and Religion
HIS	332/Topics in Eurasian and Middle Eastern History (with appropriate topic)
HIS	332/Topics/Pre-Islamic Imperial Iran
HIS	332/Topics/Islamic Mysticism and Shrines
HIS	342/Modern Middle East
HIS	347/Siberia
HIS	348/Imperial Russia, 1584-1917
HIS	455/Reading Seminar on Afghanistan
HIS	455/Reading Seminar on Survival Strategies in Pre-Modern Eurasia
HIS	455/Reading Seminar on Women in the Middle East and Central Eurasia
HIS	455/Reading Seminar on Coins and Historical Numismatics
HIS	455/Reading Seminar on Islamic Mysticism and Shrines
HON	230/Islam in Comparative Perspective
POL	250/Politics and Society in Developing Countries
POL	352/Comparative Politics of Development
POL	357/Middle East Politics
POL	380/International Political Economy

International Studies-9

POL 390/Tutorial in Political Science (with appropriate topic)
REL 113/Islam and Islamic Thought

Minor in European Studies

Advisors: Paces, Sullivan

Affiliated Faculty: Fichner-Rathus, Hustis, Knobler, Leven, Paces, Rosman-Askot, San Pedro, G. Steinberg, Sullivan, S. Wright

This interdisciplinary area studies minor within the international studies program seeks to offer students a broad background in the languages, history, politics, and cultures of Europe. It draws on the existing strengths of a number of departments and faculty members at The College of New Jersey.

Requirements:

- Five courses, drawn from at least three disciplines, chosen by the student from the approved list below or by advisement. Three of these courses must be at the 300 level or above. Students are strongly encouraged to work with their advisers to develop a coherent focus as they fulfill their minor's requirements.
- One language course in a European language other than English at the 200 level or equivalent proficiency (intermediate low as defined in the ACTFL guidelines).

Recommended Courses

ECO 340/International Economics
ECO 345/Comparative Economic Systems
FRE 240/Introduction to French Literature
FRE 255/French for Business
GER 202/Introduction to German Literature
GER 255/Business German
HIS 316/Topics in Early Modern or Modern European History
HIS 324/Women in Eastern Europe 1848–Present
HIS 325/Modern Germany
HIS 349/The Soviet Union, 1917–1991
ITL 240/Introduction to Italian Literature
ITL 255/Italian for Business
LIT 231-232/218/Perspectives on World Literature to 1800; 1800–Present
LIT 347/Modern European Drama
POL 350/Politics in Europe
POL 380/International Political Economy
POL 390/Tutorial: Democracy in France
SPA 216/Current Events in the Spanish-Speaking World

*Prerequisite: ECO 102/Macroeconomics

International Studies-10

Minor in Latin-American and Caribbean Studies

Advisor: Landreau

Affiliated Faculty: Adler, Bates, Borland, Dickinson, Figueroa, C. Fisher, Goebel, Irigoin, Landreau, McCauley, Ortiz, Pollock, Potter, Rosman-Askot, Ryan, San Pedro, Smits, P. Williams

This interdisciplinary area studies minor within the international studies program seeks to offer students a broad background in the languages, history, politics, and cultures of Mexico, Central and South America, and the Caribbean. It takes advantage of the existing strengths of a number of departments and faculty members at The College of New Jersey.

Requirements:

- Five approved courses drawn from at least three disciplines chosen by the student from the recommended list below or by advisement. Three of those courses must be at or above the 300 level. Students strongly are encouraged to develop a coherent focus as they fulfill the minor's requirements.
- Students must complete at least one course at the 200 level in Spanish or another Latin-American language, or achieve equivalent proficiency (intermediate low as defined in the ACTFL guidelines).

Recommended Courses:

AAS	201/Global Perspectives: African Diaspora Religious Traditions
AAS	202/Global Perspectives: African Diaspora, Arts, and Culture
ECO	335/Economic Development*
ECO	340/International Economics
HIS	364/History of the Caribbean
HIS	358/Colonial Latin America
HIS	359/Modern Latin America
HIS	361/History of Mexico
HON	332/Nation and Culture in Latin America
INT	350/International Trade in the Caribbean
POL	352/Political Economy of Development
POL	250/Politics and Society in Developing Countries
POL	380/International Political Economy
POL	358/Latin-American Politics
SOC	336/Social and Cultural Change
SPA	312/Survey of Latin-American Literature
SPA	327/Latin-American Short Story
SPA	331/Spanish-American Novel
WGS	334/Literature by Latina and Latin-American Women

*Prerequisite: ECO 101/Principles of Microeconomics

Prerequisite: ECO 102/Principles of Macroeconomics

Middle East Studies Minor

Advisors: Gross, Lowi

This interdisciplinary area studies minor within the international studies program seeks to offer students a broad background in the languages, history, politics, and cultures of the Middle East. It draws on the existing strengths of a number of departments and faculty members at The College of New Jersey. The minor program consists of five courses plus a language requirement.

International Studies-11

Requirements:

Two of the following:

HIS 341/Islamic History from Muhammad to the Ottomans

HIS 342/The Modern Middle East

POL 357/Politics in the Middle East

- Three additional courses such that the total of five courses are drawn from at least three disciplines, chosen by the student from an approved list, or by advisement. Students are strongly encouraged to work with their advisers to develop a coherent focus as they fulfill the minor's requirements.
- Three of the five courses must be at the 300 level or above.
- One language course at the 200 level in Arabic (Hebrew, Persian, or Turkish by special arrangement) or equivalent proficiency (intermediate low as defined in the ACTFL guidelines).

Recommended courses (descriptions and prerequisites are available under department listings):

ARA 245/Modern Arab Society and the Media (same as COM 245 and ANT 245)

ECO 210/History of Economic Thought

ECO 335/Economic Development*

ECO 340/International Economics

HIS 343/History of Central Eurasia

HIS 455/Readings Seminar in History (with appropriate topic)

HON 230/Islam in Comparative Perspective

POL 250/Politics and Society in Developing Countries

POL 352/INT 360 Comparative Political Economy of Development

POL 355/INT 355 Political Economy of Natural Resources

POL 390/Tutorial: Violence, Civil War, Revolution

POL 380/International Political Economy

REL 113/Islam and Islamic Thought

Prerequisite:* ECO 101/Microeconomics

Prerequisite:* ECO 102/Principles of Macroeconomics

Program Entrance, Retention, and Exit Standards

Every major program at the College has set standards for allowing students to remain in that program, to transfer within the College from one program to another, and to graduate from a program. The following are the standards for international studies:

- Retention in the program is based on the following performance standards in these “critical content courses”: a grade of B– in 103-level language course and in INT 200 International Studies: Processes, Themes, Issues.
- Transfer into the program from another program within the College is based upon the following performance standards in this “foundation course”: a grade of B- in the first 100-level language course taken.
- Graduation requires a GPA of 2.0 in courses for the program and a minimum grade of B– in 103-level language course and in INT 200 International Studies: Processes, Themes, Issues.

International Studies-12

General Information

Prerequisites for all courses except special courses and field experiences may be waived by permission of the instructor.

Suggested Four-Year Sequence for International Studies Majors

First Year

FSP/First Seminar	1 course unit
WRI 102/Academic Writing (if not exempted)*	1 course unit
Foreign Languages	2 course units
INT 200/International Studies: Processes, Themes and Issues	1 course unit
Arts/Humanities courses	1 course unit
Social Science/History courses	1 course unit
ECO 102/Principles of Macroeconomics	1 course unit

Students exempted from WRI 102 should take a liberal learning course*

Second Year

Arts/Humanities courses	2 course units
300-level History course	1 course unit
Natural Science/Quantitative courses	2 course units
Language	2 course units
Economics or International Business course	1 course unit

Third Year

Natural Science/Quantative course	1 course unit
300-level History course	2 course units
300-level Political Science courses	2 course units
Language	2 course units
Economics or International Business course [for Int'l Eco/Trade concentration]	1 course unit
Electives in major concentration	1-2 course units
[some of above to be taken during required semester study abroad]

Fourth Year

INT 498/Senior Seminar in International Studies	1 course unit
General Electives	7 course units

International Studies Courses

INT 200/International Studies: Processes, Themes, and Issues 1 course unit
(fall semester)

Discussion of themes and problems in international studies using the insights of economics, international business, history, political science, language, and culture. Themes include social change, historical processes, globalization, ethnic and national identity, cultural interaction, and the role of values in public affairs. Required for all students majoring in international studies.

International Studies-13

INT 250/International Study Tour (topic varies)

1 course unit

(occasionally)

Combines on-campus classroom instruction with a conducted tour of economic, cultural, and political sites in selected countries or regions. Designed to provide an integrated, interdisciplinary, geographically focused experiential learning opportunity. Individual sections of the course will examine particular geographical areas e.g., Western Europe, Caribbean, Mexico.

INT 300/Human Rights in International Relations

1 course unit

(same as POL 345)

(alternate years)

Examines the evolution of human rights movements since World War II and their influence on the behavior of nation states and other transnational actors. Major topics considered include: the history of the contemporary human rights movement, realism and liberalism in international relations theory, human rights in American foreign policy, and the role of non-state actors in international affairs. Significant attention may also be given to non-U.S. perspectives, selected regional issues, and current topics such as: women's rights, terrorism, self-determination, globalization, forced labor, democratization, and humanitarian intervention.

INT 350/International Trade in the Caribbean

1 course unit

(occasionally)

(same as INB 350)

Prerequisite: ECO 101 or ECO 102

Examines trade relationships, flows, and structures in the context of historical experiences, contemporary political relationships, and economic imperatives. With a focus on the Caribbean region, the course also looks at how international trade processes actually work.

INT 352 History of the Caribbean

1 course unit

(same as HIS 364)

(alternate years)

Examines the history of the diverse people, communities, and nations of the Caribbean Basin. A mid-level course in the History Department and the foundational course for the Caribbean concentration.

INT 355 Political Economy of Natural Resources

1 course unit

(same as POL355)

(alternate years)

Designed to give advanced undergraduates an introduction to scholarship on the politics of natural resource use; combines theoretical material with study of detailed cases that vary as regards the type of natural resource, the geographic and historical setting, and the appropriate level of analysis.

INT 360 Comparative Political Economy of Development

1 course unit

(same as POL 352)

(occasionally)

Provides a political economy approach to the puzzle of why some countries are rich and others are poor, and why, among the latter, some have been able to achieve rapid rates of growth and others have not. Includes discussion of theories of the role of the state in economic development and issues confronting the developing world today.

International Studies-14

INT 365 African Cinema: Francophone African Experience Through Film 1 course unit
(same as AAS 365)
(spring semester)

Offers an in-depth exploration of Francophone African cinema by Africans in front of and behind the camera. Re-evaluates Africa through Western cinematic production and critically examines the now Africanized gaze, as Africans start to film themselves. Theories of colonialism and postcolonialism are incorporated through lectures and readings to give students an in-depth yet intelligible understanding of the history and cultures of Africa, while they are introduced to filmic techniques.

INT 370/470/Special Topics in International Studies 1 course unit
(occasionally)
Current or specialized topics. May be taken for credit more than once if content differs.

INT 390 Research Seminar 1 course unit
(periodically)
(permission of instructor)

Working in teams, students conduct research to further their interests and contribute to the instructor's project(s). The professor determines topic, problem, research design, and relevant sources. Students unearth, analyze, and report on findings. Open to majors and non-majors alike with permission of the instructor.

INT 391/Independent Study in International Studies variable course units
(every semester)
Prerequisites: Student proposal must be approved prior to registration by faculty member supervising the project
Independent reading or research pursued under supervision of a faculty advisor.

INT 399/Internship in International Studies variable course units
(every semester)
Prerequisites: Completion of internship proposal and approval of faculty supervisor
Supervised field experience in a public or private organization with an international focus; readings and an analytic paper place the experience in scholarly perspective. May be repeated for credit; no more than two course units may be counted toward the major.

INT 410 Global Inequalities 1 course unit
(same as PHL 430 when the topics are "Global Inequalities" or "Just War and Humanitarian Intervention")
(occasionally)
Prerequisites: ECO335 or POL250 or POL380 or PHL350 or permission of the instructor
Provides advanced students in International Studies with a framework for integrating their previous courses in area studies, international political economy, development studies, and international ethics into a comprehensive understanding of one of the major challenges facing the international community in the 21st century, the eradication of extreme poverty.

International Studies-15

INT 495-496/Thesis in International Studies

1 or 2 course units

(every semester)

Prerequisite: Student proposal must be approved prior to registration by faculty member supervising the thesis

Students will design and complete an original paper of substantial length under the direction of a faculty adviser.

INT 498/Senior Seminar in International Studies

1 course unit

(spring semester)

Advanced study through individual research and formal seminar reports on broad topics in international studies. Topics chosen will prompt students to use the insights of economics/international business, history, political science, language, and culture to understand social change in local, regional, and global communities. Student research culminates in a substantial paper. Required as capstone course for all students majoring in international studies.